The Many Benefits of Installing a Rain Barrel

Maybe you've noticed the water flowing off of your roof, down the gutter, and rushing down your driveway into the street after a heavy rainfall. This is stormwater, and is a valuable resource that you can capture and use on your property with the help of a rain barrel. Water from a rain barrel can be used to water your garden and lawn, clean cars and windows, rinse hands, boots, and gardening tools. This green stormwater management practice also slows the flow of stormwater runoff coming from our roofs, driveways and other hard surfaces. Excess runoff can cause flooding, stream bank erosion, and carry pollution from the surface into the clean water we depend upon. Thankfully, rain barrels are a great way to conserve water and prevent pollution at the same time. With the help of a rain barrel, no roof is too small to make a difference.
