What's In Storm Water Runoff?

Pollutants on the streets and parking lots get washed away with the storm water runoff into waterways. Here are some of the types of pollutants in storm water runoff.

Garbage

- Oil and grease
- Gasoline
- Sediment from construction sites and urban runoff
- Metal flakes from rusting vehicles and brakes

- Road salt
- Lawn pesticides
- Agricultural herbicides
- Heavy metals from roof shingles
- Pet waste
- Leaves
- Grass clippings
- Bacteria
- Nutrients such as phosphorus and nitrogen
- Other chemicals
- Illicit discharges such as paints, cleaning solution products and used motor oil. Storm water is not clean and it can pollute our streams and lakes. Contaminated storm water is the largest contributor of pollutants to Wisconsin's urban waters today. These types of pollutants can harm fish and wildlife populations, kill native vegetation, foul drinking water supplies, and make recreational areas unsafe and unpleasant

Tips for Healthier Lawns and Lakes

Grass clippings contain phosphorus—the nutrient that turns lakes and rivers green.

There has been a lot of talk about using phosphorus free lawn fertilizer to protect our lakes and rivers. Another source of phosphorus is grass clippings that get blown onto streets, driveways and sidewalks and don't get swept up.

One bushel of grass clippings contains enough phosphorus to grow 30 to 50 pounds of algae if allowed to wash into lakes and rivers through the storm sewers.

Sweep Up! When mowing, direct the discharge chute towards the lawn and away from paved areas. If grass clippings get on paved areas, sweep.

The village picks up lawn clippings (bagged) and small branches (6' in diameter maximum, 6' in length) the second Tuesday of each month April through October.
